Boost your career & success in digital age

Do you aim to achieve a significant career step in the Western European hemisphere or in Dubai? Or are you an entrepreneur or manager in a financial sector company who would like to modernize digital capabilities & skills and to get insights on transferring business to the next level? In order to cope with current changes and obtain leadership positions in a transforming world, qualified human capital is a scarce factor. Artificial intelligence and other technologies are starting to change labour relations and even replace human work.

Modern inclusive leadership becomes a must. For successful manager it is essential to possess skills such as cultivating a growth mindset, prioritizing communication and influence, navigating innovation and change, effective collaboration with other leaders and across teams. In addition, new job profiles emerge – e.g. the Chief Data Officer is one of them as Data is the raw material for future success of your organisation.

We invite you to learn about these aspects and to enhance your career by joining our business networking event on September 19. Two representatives of the renowned Swiss Next Gen Finance Institute, a Zurich-based Think Tank, will share their insights for successful career development.
